Opinion of the Court of Appeals Reversing the Decision of the Circuit Court of Trigg in
M. G. Radford's Case.

KENTUCKY COURT OF APPEALS.

Sept. 15th, 1887.

Miles G. Radford, Appellant, vs.

Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ap-pellee; Appeal from the Trigg Circuit Court.

Opinion of the Court delivered by

Judge Holt:

The appellant, Miles G. Radford, stands convicted of manslaughter

for the killing of Henry D. Johnson, and is now in the penitentiary.

On appeal, he claims that the verdict of the jury is against the evidence, and that the court erred

in refusing to grant a new trial.

The court, after a full and careful consideration of the record, is of opinion that the verdict is supported by the evidence, and that the court

did not err in refusing to grant

a new trial.

The court, therefore, affirms

the verdict of the jury, and dismisses the appeal.

It is so ordered.

that it did not affect the accused pre-judicially. Upon the contrary it is reasonably probable that it did and the action of the trial court in this respect was erroneous.

The third instruction given to the jury reads thus: "If the jury believes from the evidence that at the time the accused, M. G. Radford, shot and killed Henry D. Johnson, (if he did so shoot and kill him), he is said

Radford not being himself the attacking party in said encounter, yet had reasonable grounds to believe, and did in good faith believe, his life was then in danger, or that his person was then in danger of great bodily harm from violence then about to be inflicted on him by said Johnson, then said Radford under his right of self-defense had the right to use such means as were within his power for his own protection; and this right may even extend to taking the life of his adversary when the danger, real or apparent, is imminent, impending provided, however, the one so taking the life of his adversary has no other safe means of avoiding such danger and protecting his life or person—the danger to one's person may be either

real or apparent."

This instruction is erroneous in two respects. The qualification,

"he, said Radford not being himself the attacking party" was both abstract and misleading. The jury may have thought that the mere taking of the gun along by the accused amounted to an attack upon the defendant; and even if this were true, yet the jury might possibly under the evidence and proper instruction have believed that any intention to use it upon Johnson that may have existed in the mind of the accused

when he left his house, had been abandoned by him before the danger advanced upon him and shot him.

The evidence does not disclose any effort, however, upon the part of Radford to use the gun until Johnson advanced upon him. One was a man about six feet high, weighing over 100 pounds, dangerous and determined in the prime of life, while the other was a crippled old man. Under this state of the case on the record as presented, the word "apparent" should not have been inserted in the instruction.

There is testimony in the record tending to support the claim that the act was done in necessary self-defense; and this instruction only allowed the accused to act in his own defense, provided there was no other safe means of avoiding the danger.

The law does not limit this right.

Such a restriction would be far from "reasonable." It would require the jury to believe and have reasonable grounds to believe that danger was apparent and impending to the accused, and that he could avoid it by using the gun, and that there is no other apparent and safe means to escape, than the use of his self-defense. Colman vs. Colman, 10th,

Kent. 495.

The fifth instruction given to the jury correctly stated the relative rights of landlord and tenant, but it was unnecessary to so instruct them in case, and calculated perhaps to mislead them. For the reasons indicted, the word "apparent" should not have been inserted in the instruction.

HERE AND THERE.

Still the cry is weter.

Quarterly Court is still in session.

Dr. J. B. Jackson, of Crofton, wants to buy a Jersey milk cow.

Hunters do not report birds as plentiful as expected.

The meeting at Shiloh is still in progress and the prospects are that they will have a successful meeting.

We carry on assortment of grocery bags and four sacks. Give us your orders.

A new building is being built on Weber street, just back of the Court House.

Patil Rosa will fill an engagement at the Opera House in the near future.

Postmaster McKenzie has been confined to his room for two weeks with dyspepsia.

An elegant brick pavement is being put down on Virginia street, between 5th and 6th.

One hundred and fifty valuable presents will be given away at each performance of Andrew's Novelty Show.

The lot where Ellis & Co's. Mill stood has been enclosed with a substantial plank fence to keep off depre-dators.

The new bell has been put in place and is quite an improvement on the old one. It can be heard several miles away.

William White, col., was brought before the court, Wednesday, charged with obtaining property under false pretenses and was released.

Rev. J. J. Porter, the revivalist, who has been holding a series of meetings at different places in this county, is now in Clarksville holding a revival.

Several persons under the influence of liquor were seen on our streets Sunday. These fellows probably don't know that Hopkinsville is a prohibition (?) town.

While several of the crossings on the streets have been repaired, there are still more than need immediate attention and should be repaired before wintry weather comes.

Our subscribers should remember that we set all papers when out, and if they do not care to miss connection of the interesting stories running in the paper they should renew promptly.

The young ladies of the Methodist church spread an oyster supper at the City Court room, Tuesday evening, and also served a lunch Wednesday at noon. A handsome sum was the result of their labors.

The meeting at the court house, conducted by Rev. Gibb, Universalist, closed Tuesday night. He organized a church with sixteen members and a building will be built at an early day in which to worship.

The "dead line" strike should be put down on the platform at the passenger depot. The crowd that gathers at that point at train time Wednesday is kept out of the way of the passengers getting on and off the cars.

The long winter nights will soon be here, and you will need something to read. THE KENTUCKIAN is only $2.00 a year and is filled with choice matter. It will give you all the news and we would be glad to place your name on our list.

James Miller, col., was tried before "Squire Tinsley, yesterday, charged with stealing $30 from Baldy Jones one day last week, and was discharged, the only proof being that Miller had the pocket book in his possession and willingly gave it up, claiming that some one threw it down and he picked it up.

Prof. Andrews and his company of artists, with an entertaining performance, will appear at the Opera House Monday night. His show is different from anything that has been here, and as each artist is well up in his particular performance, a good entertainment may be expected. The Professor will give four exhibitions while in the city.

An advertisement of the Huntington Steamship line will be found in this issue. This line of steamers ply between Newport News and Liverpool, making connection with the C. & O. trains at the wharf. Resolutions of Respect on the Death of G. A. Champlin.

At a meeting of the members of the bar of Hopkinsville, and officers of the Christian County Circuit and County Courts and City Court, the following resolutions were adopted unanimously on motion of John W. McPherson, viz:

Whereas, George A. Champlin, long a member of the bar, has departed this life in the vigor of manhood, and it is becoming that we pay a suitable tribute to his memory, therefore, be it resolved, that we do hereby bow with reverence to this suffering Providence. Be it

Resolved, 1. That in the death of our brother, we the members of the bar and judges and officers of the courts, express our common feeling of grief and sorrow, and that we declare that our brother whom we have known long and well, was a good, honest, conscientious lawyer, of sound judgment, of courteous and kind deportment, and more than all above all a large hearted, generous, kind, sympathetic and charitable gentleman.

2. That in his death we sustain a grievous loss, as members of the bar and officers of the courts, and the community a public officer who was faithful in the discharge of every duty imposed upon him.

3. That as an evidence of our esteem and affection for the deceased we will attend his funeral (this day) as a body, and will cherish his memory, and remember him as one who never spoke to us an unkind word.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded by the Secretary, to the family of the deceased, and to the newspapers of Hopkinsville, and to the Judge of the Christian County Court with a request that they be entered on the minutes of said Court.

Unexpected Death of H. B. Willson.

[Clarksville Tobacco Leaf.]

"The news of the death of Henry B. Willson created quite a shock on our streets yesterday morning. Mr. Willson died about 1 o'clock Monday morning, at his home on Main street. He had been ill with malarial fever for ten days, but the community did not regard his illness as serious, and was wholly unprepared for his untimely death. On Saturday, however, peritonitis developed and carried him off quickly.

Mr. Willson was in the prime of strong manhood, about thirty-five years old, we suppose, and up to his last illness enjoyed exceptionally fine health. He came to Clarksville from Hopkinsville about ten years ago, and with Jas. M. Howling entered the shoe business as Bowling & Willson. This firm continued until about a year ago, when J. F. Bell bought them out, since which time Mr. Willson has been a salesman for Mr. Bell. Seven or eight years ago he married Miss Sule Dorch, a devoted wife and two little children, a son and a daughter.

Mr. Willson was a native of Somerset, Ky., though his parents now reside in Florida. It was his intention to make that State his home in the future, and but for his illness he would doubtless have left for Kissimmee City in a few weeks. He was a Knight Templar, an Odd Fellow and Knight of Pythias. He was a whole-souled, generous, open-handed man, and had many friends."

Mr. Willson was, for several years, a salesman for Dabney & Bush, of this city, and his gentlemanly bearing and uniform courtesy won for him a host of friends who will regret to hear of his untimely death.

Some of our grocers seem to be laboring under the impression that they can buy their grocery bags for less than we can sell them for. Such is not the case, and if they will stop long enough to figure it up, they will find that they often buy in foreign markets at a loss. Besides buying from a home dealer keeps the money at home and encourages the upbuilding of home enterprises. Come around and let us furnish you what you need.

KELLY.

KELLY, KY., Nov. 2.—Everything is still and no news of interest. We need rain and money but that is well known.

F. W. Owen, Jr., had a severe hemorrhage of the lungs yesterday, but is improving, to-day.

If we had another item we would write it up, but we can do no better now.

Birmingham Excursion.

The L. & N. will sell tickets to Birmingham from the 5th to 9th inclusive at one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good returning until Nov. 13th. This will be a splendid opportunity to visit the magic city of the South. The American Shipping and Industrial League will be in session in that city from Nov. 8th to 10th.

We learn that the meeting of the Seventh Missionary Circle of the Bethel Association, held at West Mount Zion church, on last Saturday and Sunday, was well attended; and the congregation manifested a pleasing interest in all the discussions and other exercises of the meeting. On Saturday morning the various departments of church work were considered. Great stress was laid on the duty of visiting the sick and the poor and administering to their wants. On Saturday afternoon Dr. B. F. Eager, with a map of Asia hung up on the wall, lectured on the spiritual condition of China. Several addresses on missions were made on Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning. Preaching was held on Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Boys between the ages of 10 and 15, who will neither work nor go to school, are set to work breaking stone at Fulton, Kansas.

A Mysterious Explosion.

St. Louis, Nov. 1.—A flash followed by a dull roar and then the crash of walls, convulsed the center of this city at 2:30 o'clock this morning, and the clamor that followed carried the rumor of the horrible calamity that had befallen three families well wrapped in slumber. An explosion of gasoline in the rear of the cellar of Michael Newman's grocery, No. 13 South Fourteenth street, had lifted the two-story building from its foundation and dropped it back again in a mass, beneath which were buried seventeen persons. Those killed or badly injured were: Michael Newman, aged fifty-two years; Mrs. Annie Newman, aged forty years; Miss Mamie Newman, aged eighteen years; John Newman, aged sixteen years; Nellie Newman, aged fifteen years; Kate Newman, aged eleven years; Eddie Newman, aged thirteen years; Charles Devere, Miss Little Bryant, of Columbus, Ky.; Charles Elford, Mrs. Beasley.

The messenger of death had scarcely wrecked the place before devastating fire swept through the ruins and seemed bent on infernal work. Human aid was quickly on the scene, but in such confusion that the horror seemed to increase with their efforts to relieve the imprisoned victims. The people of the neighborhood, dumfounded, many bruised, and none in their normal state, ran about the streets seeking friends, demanding explanations or mourning from bruises.

The shot of flame that had swooped down on the ruins baffled the efforts of the firemen, who had begun the first systematic work, and for a few minutes bid fair to spread into adjoining property. But good work was done, and then began the search for the dead.

There are many theories to explain the explosion, but none are satisfactory.

Poverty and Distress.

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the pure and out of the poverty of the rich, but of the poverty of the poor, a condition termed anemia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat diseases, splitting of blood and consumption, are among the common results. If you are a sufferer from thin, poor blood employ Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which enriches the blood and cures these grave affections. Is more nutritive than cod liver oil, and is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. Sold by druggists.

KANSAS CITY, MEMPHIS AND BIRMINGHAM R. R.

A Through Route Between the South and West.

The Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad is now completed from Memphis to Birmingham, and open for business, making a continuous line under one management between Birmingham and Kansas City, and practically the only through route between the South and West.

The passenger train equipment of the new line is unequalled, and no efforts will be spared by the management to meet the requirements of the traveling public. For further information, rates, etc., address J. E. Lockwood, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, at Kansas City.

EXCHANGE FLASHES.

When the base-ball professional is at his own house, and hears the dinner-bell, he always answers the summons at his topmost speed. He says "it is making a run for the home-plate."

The statement of "Dr. Jodyl and Mr. Hyde" came to him in a dream shows what a cold mucus pie will do for a man who eats it just before going to bed.

He—Then you love me?
She—I do.
He—And may I speak to your pa?
She—Speak to ma. Pa ain't anybody in this house.

"Do you play?" Inquired Miss Belle of the young traveling man who was walking with her, as she approached the piano. "Well—yer-an occasional game of draw, but never to excess, you know."

The Springfield Republican says: "Cicopatra dissolved pearls in liquor, and Boston does the same with her bass ball line." It is a little singular that owing to this state of things the nine has lost spirit.

A west-side lady is now in pursuit of her seventh divorce. It is a noticeable fact that when a woman at the outset of married life falls into the train of worthless husbands she is very apt to keep it up as long as she lives.

"How can I get rid of this dyspepsia?" said an Anatoli invalid to his physician. "Have you tried prepared chalk?" "Yes, I have been getting my milk from a milkman for the last six years. The doctor says that's what gave me the dyspepsia."

A religious weekly sent much time in discussing "How to bring young men into the church." That is easy enough. Hire a policeman to prevent young men from loitering around the church door during the services. Then they will have to go in or miss the girls.

Mrs. O'Harrity—Now put in another quarrel.

Grocer (putting in second quarrel)—Why didn't you ask for a half-gallon at first and have done with it?

Mrs. O'Harrity—Och, bless yer sowl! One quarrel is fer me self and two is fer Mrs. Casey.

There is something suggestive in the title of a recent magazine article, "The Close of the War by A. Taylor." Probably he described the breaches made by the artillery.

"Holla! I hear your sister is sick, what ails her?" "I don't know, ma'am. Maybe it's the diploma."

"The what, child?" "The diploma. I heard mother say she took it at school."

Old Gentleman—Now, Sidney, tell me who was the first man.

Sidney (promptly)—Adam.

Old Gentleman—Very good, indeed. Who was the first woman?

Sidney (after some hesitation)—Madam.

General Simon Cameron was first elected to the Senate of the United States in 1845, when he succeeded James Buchanan, who resigned to take the position of secretary of state in the administration of President Polk. General Cameron's next service in the Senate of the United States began in 1857.

Mrs. Lippincott (Grace Greenwood) has after a protracted sojourn abroad, turned her face homeward, and will in a few days set foot on her native soil for the first time in many years. She is accompanied by her daughter, Miss Annie Lippincott, who has in Italy won a place among the younger generation of American singers.

"SUCCESS OF THE DAY."

The Cult of Wealth and How it Demoralizes Human Nature.

To succeed in life is to get rich. That is the all but universal understanding of the term "success." To this the lives of most of us are deliberately devoted, and if we do not fall it matters nothing to our generation what soils and stains we have contracted on the way, how base and mean and unworthy our practices have made us, how deeply ignorant we may be of every thing worth knowing, how dead our hearts may be to generous emotions. So we be rich, all else passes for trifles, and a dull, stupid, low-minded and groveling age welcomes our congenial qualities and defects.

How precious should this gift of riches be, when we consider the extent of the degradation to which the pursuit of it subjects men! Candor and truth, justice and equity, self-respect and faithfulness, all the qualities which go to make honorable manhood, in short, must be sunk out of sight, done violence to, or perhaps even surrendered altogether, in order to attain the desired end. Putting on the armor of selfishness, we address ourselves to a career which gradually extinguishes the desire for any thing better, and of which the most that can be said is that it prepares us in some way for the fusions which crown it. But what a reason for existence, what a motive for action, what an incentive to energy, this cult of wealth is, to figure, at the close of the nineteenth century, as the very best that the cream and flower of the human race can attain to.—George Fredrick, in Atlantic.
